Peace Move Fails In Philadelphia Strike

F.D.R. EXPECTED TO TAKE OVER STRUCK SYSTEM

Paralyzed City Awaiting Federal Intervention In Transport Tieup

WAR MATERIALS DELAYED

Production Of Cannon, Radar, Trucks, Bombs, Flame Throwers Interrupted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—President Roosevelt was expected today to order government seizure of the strike-bound Philadelphia transportation system as the work stoppage continued to strand thousands of war workers and jeopardize the city's production of vital war supplies.

A reported partial restoration of service on subway and subway-elevated lines disintegrated after two hours, thus paving the way for anticipated White House action ordering operation of the system by the army or office of defense transportation.

The strike, involving nearly 11,000 workers of the Philadelphia Transit Co., who stopped work in protest against upgrading of Negro workers, was attributed to the President by the War Labor Board and War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes.

It was explained that the President, who is not in Washington, has received a full report on the Philadelphia transit situation. White House officials declined to disclose whether the President's decision would designate what agency would take over operation of the transit system or decide the fundamental question of seizure.

Action Looms

It was generally expected, however, that the White House action would determine whether the war department or the Office of Defense Transportation would assume operation of the system. Both the Army and ODT are un-

Libel Threatened

MAXWELL ANDERSON, famed playwright (shown at top), finds himself in an interesting political drama with Congressman Hamilton Fish, of New York (below), who threatens libel action based on charges appearing in a political advertisement during Fish's primary campaign. Anderson has challenged Fish to bring the action. Wendell Wilkie has offered to defend Anderson. Presidential candidate Tom Dewey has said he doesn't want Fish's support. There the matter stands. ITALIAN RELIEF STIRS CLASHES

Washington Agencies In Sharp Differences On Procedure Program

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—A sharp difference appeared today among Washington agencies as to how they shall assume responsibility for civilian relief in Italy—a problem which Hitler has left, like a founding, on the doorstep of the Allies.

The issue was raised by a formal request of Italian Premier Ivanoe Bonomi that lend-lease aid should be extended to Italy. Acting Secretary of State Stettinius said the request was under consideration.

But Henry F. Grady, vice-president of the Allied Control Commission for Italy, declared flatly in a statement for International News Service that he believed the relief problem should be assumed by the agency set up to administer relief—namely, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

But that agency countered with the statement that UNRRA is prohibited by its own regulations from giving relief to an enemy or ex-enemy country without formal action of the council, which will not meet until the Montreal conference September 15.

Grady, who just returned from Italy, estimated that 50 million dollars is required to take care of medical supplies, relief for displaced persons, and minimum quantities of clothing.

"I feel," he said, "that this is a function for UNRRA."

LIGHT-FINGERED PUPIL REPAYS SCHOOL LOSS

JOLIET, Ill., Aug. 3—All was forgiven today by the Joliet township high school board following receipt of a $100 bill donated anonymously as a sop to conscience.

A letter on which the bill was pinned read:

"Dear Sirs: While I was going to high school I had a bad habit of picking up things that didn't belong to me and which belonged to the school. It was a very bad habit and now I am trying to make things right. I am enclosing $100. Do with it as you see fit. Please forgive me. God bless you all."

KILGORE BILL DRAWS FIRE AS "TOO LIBERAL"

Unemployment Pay Up To $35 A Week Opposed By WMB Chief Byrnes

COMPROMISE PROPOSED

Federal Domination Of State Jobless Systems May Be Balked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes today was reported to have intervened in the impending congressional battle over unemployment insurance for war workers in opposition to the Kilgore-Murray-Truman bill.

Byrnes was said to have informed congressional leaders that he believed the terms of the bill, which provides for unemployment compensation up to $35 a week and provides federal domination of state unemployment systems, are too liberal and should be modified.

The intervention of Byrnes may result in a third program being thrust into the congressional battle to meet the economic shock of a possible early German collapse.

Byrnes himself has proposed a plan which would be a compromise between the George "States Rights" program and the Kilgore federal domination proposal.

Byrnes' Proposal

Under his proposal, states would continue to direct unemployment compensation. The federal government would require states to pay at least $25 a week for total unemployment for a period of 26 weeks. The federal government would reimburse states for added cost.

Under the George bill, which will be considered in the senate Tuesday, states would be encouraged to liberalize unemployment compensation by a federal guarantee of solvency of funds. The plan also contemplates spread of coverage to establishments with only one employee instead of eight. This latter provision was endorsed by Byrnes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—Once convicted of defrauding the government of $2,000,000, Oberlin M. Carter, sometimes called "the American Dreyfus," left only a nominal estate, probate court records showed today.

A 160-acre farm in Van Buren county, Mich., his home in Chicago, and $1,200 composed the estate.

Former associates of Carter said he spent his fortune in a 40-year fight to clear his name. Graduated from West Point with a scholastic record second only to that of Robert E. Lee, he served in the Army as a captain of engineers. He died July 18 at the age of 88.

He was charged with defrauding the government in the construction of a harbor project in Savannah, Ga., and was sentenced to Leavenworth for five years following a court martial in 1898.

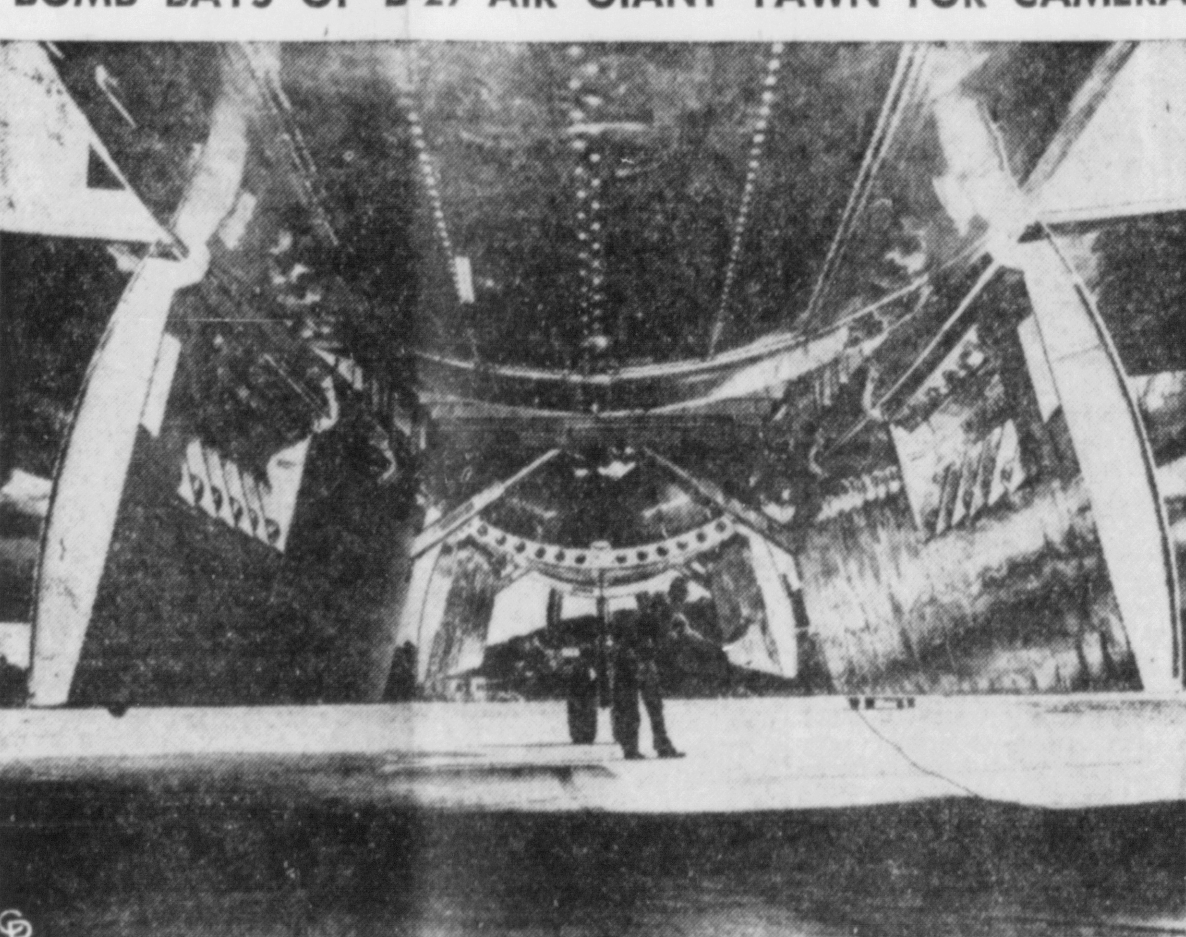

After serving his sentence, Carter sought to clear his name. Federal courts handed down 27 rulings and the case reached the U. S. supreme court four times.

KING BACK IN LONDON AFTER ITALIAN TOUR

The British monarch arrived in the capital at 7 a. m. The flight back to Britain was uneventful.

FIRST JAP AIR TEAM WIPED OUT

Nips Have Plenty Of Planes But Trained Pilots All Are Dead

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA

Aug. 3—The Jap is by no means short of airplanes but his entire first string of pilots has been lost and it is the shortage of trained pilots and combat crews that he will feel in his future defense of the Philippines, Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney, commander of the Far Eastern A. A. F. told International News Service in an interview today.

Kenney, whose air force has been hitting Halmahera island, the stepping stone to the Philippines, warned against the current fallacy that destruction of planes on the ground and in combat has weakened the enemy supply of aircraft.

"The Jap has been producing plenty of planes and will commit them when he decides to make a fight," Kenney declared. "Where he has been hurt most is not in numbers of planes but in the loss of first string pilots. I think we have wiped out his entire first team."

"I would say," the general continued, "that our bombing and shooting down in combat has reduced his air strength outside the Philippines by more than 50 per cent in the last year, and we are continuing to hit him hard."

NAZIS ALARMED BY HUNGARIAN PEACE YEARNING

LONDON, Aug. 3—The Germans are alarmed at the growth of peace sentiment in Hungary and are planning a new coup d'etat, the diplomatic correspondent of the London Daily Herald reported today.

The Nazis distrust Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy and a section of the army, according to the Herald article, and regard the present Hungarian government as too weak to cope with the situation. As the result, the correspondent declared, they plan to install Iron Guardist Bela Imredy as dictator.

SEN. BILBO IMPROVES

GERMAN TROOPS MOVING OUT OF SOUTH FINLAND

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 3—German troops are quitting southern Finland, according to reports reaching Stockholm today from Helsinki.

Part of the 20,000 Nazi soldiers sent to Finland after the visit of Joachim Von Ribbentrop, German minister of foreign affairs, already have sailed from Finnish ports, one dispatch said.

The troops were said to be en route to East Prussia.

The report of the evacuation of the German forces followed the appointment of Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim as president without the formality of an election, and rumored preparations for peace discussions with the Russians.

WICKARD WARNS OF VALUE HIKE IN FARM LANDS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—A warning from Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard pictured America today as facing another "inflationary land spree" if its people do not pay up their debts or put extra money in war bonds.

Wickard said: "Another farm land boom, close to paralleling the one that ended so disastrously after the last war, is building up in this country."

"Most rural Americans over 40 years old remember all too well the suffering, heartbreak and misery that stalked the nation as the tide of farm foreclosures, bankruptcies and bank failures swept the country in the twenties and thirties after land prices hit the downhill trail."

"Much of the economic chaos was traceable to the original mistake of people going into debt to buy farms at boomtime prices. In other words, they paid more than the land was worth."

He declared that the "stage is set" for a repeat performance. He blamed keen competition between city people in purchasing farm land today as the basis for the growing inflation.

POLISH EXILE PREMIER CONFERS WITH MOLOTOV

LONDON, Aug. 3—Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, premier of the exile Polish government in London, saw Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov in a half-hour conference, the Exchange Telegraph Company reported from Moscow today.

The meeting was said to have taken place in "a friendly atmosphere," and Mikolajczyk was quoted as saying he hoped to see Premier Joseph Stalin very soon.

The Polish premier is in Moscow in an effort to improve relations between his government and the Russians.

EVATT WOULD SHIFT TAX FLOW

Diversion Of $7,500,000 To Local Subdivisions Aim Of Ohio Chief

COLUMBUS, Aug. 3—Repeal of the state sales tax on restaurant meals and the three percent state admissions tax to enable local subdivisions to levy on these sources of revenue was recommended today by State Tax Commissioner William S. Evatt.

In his report to Governor Bricker outlining fiscal and tax policies for the coming 1945-46 biennium, Evatt also suggested that the entire 2-cents-per-package state tax on cigarettes be returned to the local governments.

"The foregoing suggested changes in our tax structure on the present basis would mean an annual loss of revenue to the state of approximately seven and one-half million dollars," said Evatt.

"But because these revenues are derived particularly from the larger metropolitan centers, they should make available to those cities which are in need of financial assistance, amounts which should exceed what they would get by increasing the local government fund to twenty-two or twenty-four million dollars per year." The annual local government (Continued on Page Two)

HUNS INSISTING NEW INVASION THRUSTS LOOM

LONDON, Aug. 3—The Nazis continued today to circulate reports of possible imminent Allied amphibious landings in Northern Italy or Southern France.

The German-dominated Vichy radio asserted that a fleet of considerable size, consisting of landing craft, lay off southern Italy.

Numerous Allied divisions and armored units were said to have been observed at various embarkation ports along the Tyrrhenian sea coast which, continued Vichy, "suggests an attempt at landing in Northern Italy or Southern France."

There was absolutely no substantiation of the enemy reports.

POSSE TRAILS SLAYER

LAONA, Wis., Aug. 3—A posse of 20 men headed by Sheriff Harry Fannin searched a wooded area near Laona today for a lumberjack suspected of the murder of a girl to whom he had been attentive. The body of the girl, Selma Strauch, was found yesterday in a patch of woods. The victim had been bludgeoned and choked to death.

Huns Vent Wild Fury On England

Hitler Sends Over Wave Of Robot Bombs In Record Assault

LONDON, Aug. 3—The Germans, smitten by constant reverses on the battlefields of Europe, vented their fury on England today by sending wave on wave of robot bombs over the southern counties and the London area in the heaviest assault to date.

Anti-aircraft batteries on the southeast coast of England sent continuous barrages into the sky against the robots throughout the morning. The assaults by waves of the pilotless missiles, begun during the night, continued almost non-stop in daylight.

Barrages from anti-aircraft guns sent streaking into the sky since midnight were maintained virtually without letup to combat the Nazi menace. The robot assaults and counter-fire resulted in the lengthiest period of gunfire and explosions yet experienced in Southern England.

Germany's reaction to events of her blackest week of the war, said the London Evening News, has been to step up robot raids against Britain while there is yet time.

Southern counties and the London area suffered damage from the pilotless craft which also inflicted new casualties.

In the most heavily hit area the robots came in waves and at shorter intervals than heretofore. Anti-robot defenses hurled heavy barrages at the missiles and destroyed a number in flight.

Six hospitals were either hit or damaged by the robot explosives. Numerous churches, stores and homes suffered in the stepped up robot attacks during the night and again today.

In his house of commons meanwhile, Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison said that the government had decided not to lift the blackout at present and reported that double British Summer time would be extended until September 17th.

PUBLIC ALCOHOL MAKING AGAIN IN FULL SWING

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 3—The production of alcohol for human consumption was in full swing today for the first time in 22 months in Peoria distilleries, which normally produce about one-sixth of the nation's whiskey.

It was estimated that between six and seven million gallons of alcohol will have been produced through a 24-hour day seven days a week by the end of the one month holiday allowed from war production by the War Production Board.

With corn unavailable for distilling purposes, the holiday will not see any bourbon whiskey made. Distillery officials said that approximately 60,000 bushels of grain, mostly wheat will be used daily to make neutral spirits to be blended with aged whiskey and to manufacture gin.

Distillery officials indicated a small amount of rye would be made during the month and placed in barrels for aging. They estimated that about a year's normal supply of beverage alcohol will be produced by the nation's distilling industry in the coming month.

Hiram Walker and the National Distillers have plants in Peoria and the American distillery operates at nearby Pekin. About 3,500 men are employed in the three plants.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3—"Dago" Lawrence Mangano, former Capone gangster and gambling boss, was shot and fatally wounded and a companion was seriously wounded early today as they sat in a parked automobile in the central part of the city.

The other man shot gave his name as Mike Pontelli before he lapsed into unconsciousness at Bridewell hospital.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—The British radio reported today that a great air battle was raging just south of Warsaw for control of the crossings of the Vistula river.

The German air force was going all-out in an effort to smash Soviet bridgeheads across the stream and to prevent reinforcements, London said in a broadcast.

Seventy-five German planes were shot down in this battle yesterday, London declared.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Aug. 3—American tank spearheads have pushed forward through Brittany in the direction of both Rennes, Breton capital, and Dinan, along the highway toward the port of Brest, the Nazi high command reported today.

By International News Service

As spearheads of American armor slashed deeper into Brittany today in a mounting drive apparently aimed at cutting off the entire Breton peninsula a German correspondent at headquarters of Field Marshal Guenther Von Kluge, Nazi commander in France, reported that the situation on the western sector was "critical."

The comment was reported in a wireless dispatch of the Nazi agency DNB.

Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower remained reticent about the penetration of American First Army units in Brittany, announcing only that the Yank advance beyond Pontorson, 13 miles below Avranches, continues.

COUNTY RATION BOARD RANKED THIRD IN AREA

Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board Thursday had been ranked third in the district comprising 35 boards.

Ratings for May placed the local board 15th on the list, but the ratings for June, just released, places the board third.

Ratings are made by the district office on reports submitted by the board. The higher rating reflects increased efficiency of the local board. The office here was given 100 percent for promptness and 95 percent for accuracy on its June report.

George D. McDowell is chairman of the Pickaway county board and Myra Rader is chief clerk.

tions encountering stiffer resistance than had been met in the last few days.

In the hotly-contested Percy to Tassy-Sur-Vire area, units of the British Second Army and the Nazi 116th Panzer division still were locked in heavy fighting.

Strong opposition, including a fair amount of enemy armor, was met northeast of the road and rail town of Vire, south of Caumont, but a British radio dispatch reported capture of the city.

In a dispatch from Normandy, Reuter's reported that fast reconnaissance patrols have moved beyond Vire which was entered last night "in solid force."

A new short American advance southeast of Percy was reported. Fighting continued in the area.

Headquarters said that in general the situation on the Norman battlefronts had changed little during the night.

Reds Roar Ahead

The Red Army juggernaut intensified its drive toward pre-war Reich territory, plunging westward from the area of Mariampol to within less than eight miles of the frontier of East Prussia proper.

Increased pressure by the Soviet offensive forces resulted in the capture of Dydzyzi, eight miles from the border of East Prussia, and Vilkaviskis, 11 miles distant.

Other Soviet forces, surging irresistibly toward Warsaw, had increased the tempo of their attack and were exerting mounting pressure on the crossings of the Vistula.

Although the midnight communiqué was indefinite, Polish reports placed Red spearheads in Praga, a Warsaw suburb, and heavy fighting was said to be underway in other outlying sections of the city. Polish underground forces were reported battling the Nazis in the center of the capital.

The Russian statement disclosed liberation of some 200 points north and west of Siedlec, representing mopping up operations preparatory to the decisive push into Warsaw.

Summing up operations along the whole Russian front, the Soviet armies took Sarni and Tiltgals east of Riga, but there were no reports of advances against the Germans trapped in the Baltic states of Estonia and Latvia.

North of Kaunas the towns of Krakes and Zastrebe were taken. In an effort to widen the Warsaw salient, the Reds seized Czerna.

The headquarters of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson reported that troops of an Indian division of the Allied Eighth Army in Italy crossed the Po river on a wide front south of Montelpu, 10 miles west of Florence, advancing more than a mile to tighten the ring closing around the Italian "Treasure City."

Heavy fighting raged southwest of Florence, while south of the ancient town important new gains were scored against determined enemy position.

American forces in Guam battled mounting Japanese resistance on the northern third of the island after advancing their island-wide line a mile and taking possession of another Japanese airfield. On nearby Tinian island the Marines mopped up scattered remnants of the Jap garrison.

American ground forces at Sanpator on the western end of Dutch New Guinea expanded and consolidated their positions. They already were in control of 10 miles of coastline on the Vogelkop peninsula. The Japanese were offering little resistance.

NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Captain Richard Cockerill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cockerill, of Washington C. H., has arrived home for a furlough visit of several days with his parents. Capt. Cockerill is a former member of the teaching staff of Walnut township school.

Word has been received that Ralph Whitesides, of Darby township, is a prisoner of war in Germany. Also that Robert Christensen, Darby township, is missing in action. Both are graduates of Derby high school.

Private Alfred Waits, of Darbyville, has been promoted to corporal, (technician 5). His address is: ASN 35222361, 1514th S. U. P. O. W. Camp, Ashford General Hospital, West Virginia.

WAC Helen Evans Owens, who is stationed at Midland, Tex., is pleased to learn of plans being made for a memorial lake in Pickaway county, she states in a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Mehs, North Court street. In her letter, Mrs. Owens also tells of a recent visit to her soldier-husband, Robert Owens, who is stationed in Albuquerque, N. M.

Headquarters, European Theatre of Operations—Problems of communication, occupying a major role in the invasion of France, are worked out at a huge Services of Supply invasion base maintained by a number of American Service Forces Signal Depot companies "somewhere in England."

Working in sheds and shops equipped with up-to-date, power-operated tools, enlisted men are engaged in repairing for further use equipment damaged in combat areas. Radio, largely the "walkie-talkie" type, field telephones, radar equipment and meteorological instruments are returned to them by units that are seeing action daily.

Personnel in the signal unit attended service schools before leaving the United States for the European theatre of operations and are capable of repairing anything that can be repaired, according to Major Lynn F. Hummel, 36-year old Long Branch, N. J., resident, who is signal officer at the depot.

Most of the men were experienced in their present duties before entering the service. The head radio repairman, for example, had 15 years experience in wireless communication. Several others had worked for years as telephone linemen, switchboard operators and telegraphers. Today they are regarded as experts. Among those working in the signal section of the depot, and his unit jobs is: Staff Sergeant Harry J. Strawser, 36, of 228 Logan street, who is a warehouse foreman.

BROOKLYN MAN CHAMP OF ALL BLOOD DONATORS

Hofstadter's wife has donated 12 pints and both said they would continue to donate blood.

INGENUITY

PANCAKES cooked on a shovel? Why not? Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, whom President Roosevelt recently suggested for his running-mate, with three friends, recently found himself deep in the Wallawa Mountains of Oregon without any cooking utensils.

Were they embarrassed? Were they worried? Not at all. They scoured a prospector's old shovel with sand, and used it for a griddle. The rest of their cooking they did in a tomato can.

Any experienced camper, reading this, naturally sniffs. Nothing remarkable about it. It would never have been reported except for that one eminent name. Competent campers, he thinks, would not have forgotten their kit. Even if one or two were a little excited by political possibilities, the others should have thought of it. Cooking has been done on shovels and in tomato cans since tomatoes were put in tin, and since the first prospector hunted gold. As an example of Yankee ingenuity, it's a dud.

But here is really something: Farmer Robert McClure of Boston, O., is making a windmill out of spare and waste parts, hoping to light his house with electricity from wind-power. He has used bicycle rims, iron bedsteads, galvanized wash tubs, popstick sticks and wagon wheels. It is almost ready to work. If it does, and it looks as if it might, the effective ingenuity of the pioneers is still among us.

PERSIAN RULER

REZA Shah Pahlavi, the monarch who over Persia, has died in exile in far-away South Africa.

When he came to the throne a generation ago, Persia was in the last stages of decay, about to be divided between Russia and England. Reza Shah put his country on its feet financially, built railroads, developed the oil and other industries, and westernized the country generally. He improved and extended education, and relaxed the grip of the Mohammedan religious leaders. He performed for Persia the same life-saving operation that another great Oriental, Mustafa Kemal, did for Turkey.

His career wound up, however, in one fatal mistake. He picked Hitler as the winner of this war, and in consequence lost his throne. But Persians will still remember him as a great ruler who did much for his country.

The news of the wholesale executions in Nazi Germany suggest that the old truths still hold. For instance, the one that states, "They who take the sword shall perish by the sword."

Friends Believe Wallace Will Get Important Post Production Goals for Army Falling Behind Schedules

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Henry Agard Wallace may have been dumped as President Roosevelt's running mate for the fourth term, but his friends are predicting he will turn up smiling in an important government post if the Democrats are victorious again in November.

Berths mentioned for Wallace include the ambassadorships to either Russia or China or some roving assignment for the president.

Despite Roosevelt's failure to give strong support to Wallace at the Democratic national convention, the vice president's supporters are certain that the shaggy-haired, idealistic Iowan is still a White House favorite and would command much attention in the assignment of an important wartime or post-war diplomatic post.

Observers recall that Wallace has been virtually bound dog faithful to the president even in the face of biting White House criticism of some of his statements and they also remember that Roosevelt has given Wallace a double endorsement in recent months.

First was the sendoff accorded Wallace by the president upon departure for Russia and China. Second was the White House letter to the Democratic convention in which the president said: "If I were a delegate, etc."

THE POSSIBILITY of a sudden German defeat has left many Washington observers wondering whether the Allies have a full-fledged plan for occupation and control of Germany in the wake of

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

REPATRIATES DESCRIBE

WASHINGTON—War Department officials are much concerned over the way the Germans have been treating American prisoners. Reports from exchanged American prisoners reveal conditions in German war camps unspeakably bad. One prisoner, recently returned from Oflag Camp No. 64 in occupied Poland, reports that the diet given American prisoners is as follows:

Breakfast—Nothing (served with water if you want it).

Lunch—A bowl of thin soup and one thin slice of black bread (occasionally mouldy and invariably stale).

Supper—Two potatoes.

These reports disclose that, if it were not for the food packages supplied every week or ten days by the Red Cross, prisoners could not live. As it is, most are reported suffering from malnutrition.

One American prisoner, trying to describe conditions through the Nazi censor, wrote on a post card: "Food is plentiful and good. They treat us fine. We have no complaints. Everybody is happy. Don't forget to tell this to Sweeney."

While American boys are living on potatoes and water, German war prisoners in the U.S.A. are accorded the best of treatment, minimum of work, good clothing, food and shelter. They are even permitted their own camp newspapers, are generally accorded entertainment and almost luxurious treatment.

NOTE—German relatives of American citizens used to evade censorship by letters similar to that of the U.S. war prisoner. One such letter said: "Everybody is very well over here now. Anna is well, Esther is well, and so is Joseph, but Grandmother is happiest of all." Grandmother had been dead for five years.

HEAVY ARTILLERY COMES BACK

Uncensored dispatches from the Russian front reveal that one big reason for the current Red Army success is the Russian ability to mass all types of artillery in unprecedented quantity before every major offensive.

The Red Army is a carefully tailored organization, never unduly excited about new weapons of war. Each Red Army division is well equipped with a balanced number of tanks, planes and heavy guns. Never, throughout the entire course of the war, has production of any type of weapon been cut down in favor of others, as we sometimes have stopped tanks and artillery in favor of airplanes.

In the early days of the war, when "victory through air power" was so popular, the Russians continued building planes, but also continued strong emphasis on artillery.

Meanwhile, the British and American high commands put such stress on air power that they slighted heavy guns and tanks. Artillery production was never great. Tank production has been sporadic. Now, air power is not nearly as effective in Normandy as had been hoped. Air corps officials blame it on the weather. However, artillery men point out that their big guns are never silenced by the elements, are more accurate in close-range warfare than anything else invented.

Fact is, air power has very definite uses, but only in relationship to ground forces. One of the major myths now being exploded in France is the theory of "deadly accurate precision bombing." While Air Corps publicists show numerous reconnaissance photos to prove the accuracy of precision bombing, they don't show unconditional surrender terms.

Some fear that Germany, now admittedly in the throes of its most important internal crisis of the war, may be plunged into the same confusion that overtook Italy—that war-guilty criminals may escape, temporarily, as did Mussolini, and that anarchy may rule the land. The situation is one of the most pressing which beets Washington.

THE BATTLE OF THE LAWYERS, in the government's mass sedition trial, continues unabated in Washington's sultry war-time summer.

Nerves are getting thin, and no end is in sight for the legal battle royal being fought in Justice Edward C. Eicher's bandbox courtroom. Best bet is the trials will drag on late into the fall.

IN ALL THE TALK of "cutbacks" and reconversion, one fact has gone unnoticed. This is the increase of nearly one billion dollars in the Army's supply schedule for 1944.

Hence, the warnings of the military that production goals have not been met. For the first half of the year, only 46 per cent of the Army's schedules were achieved.

WPE's glowing accounts of production performances, the military says, are based on first-of-the-month predictions as to what can be attained in that month. They are not based on the Army's needs and do not reflect accomplishments measured against the over-all program laid down at the beginning of the year.

High military officials are concerned because they know that the final grand assault against Germany will consume war materials in unprecedented quantities. They warn that the small month-to-month lags in production are cumulative and are not being made up.

For example, truck production is expected to fall 80,000 vehicles short of Army requirements if the present lags continue for the remainder of the year.

The Heart Murmur

It's Usually Nothing to Worry About

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

THE QUESTION of heart murmurs does not usually disturb the calm of our civil life, but in war time when the draft boards examine any large group of young men of the army have found a heart murmur on him, and he was desperately anxious to get into the service. I was a medical officer and I examined him and found he did indeed have a murmur. But I didn't think it would interfere with his activities and managed to get him into the ground forces of an aviation unit.

Well, I hadn't seen him for a long while until the other day and I said: "How is that heart murmur?" and he said, "That is worth $8,000 a year to me, insurance compensation, and I feel fine." And he has been carrying that murmur, my friends, for over twenty-five years to my positive knowledge.

Examination of Students

I am confirmed in this by a report of the examination of Harvard College students. Of 2,856 of these who had an special heart examination, 350 (12%) were found to have a systolic heart murmur. In 248 the murmur was classified as functional. One hundred twenty seven students (4%) had heart murmurs of such intensity that the examiner was unwilling to classify them as functional. A good many of these were followed for two to four years, and it was never possible to make a positive diagnosis of organic heart disease, nor did it interfere in any way with their activities.

The fact is a systolic murmur alone does not mean anything. The important findings to throw light on the murmur are the size of the heart, the rhythm of the pulse, etc. (A systolic murmur means one time as taking place during the contraction of the heart. A diastolic murmur heard between beats is more serious.)

I suppose 80% of all practicing physicians could detect a frank heart murmur. But there are lots of heart sounds that are in and between and I don't suppose 10% of practicing physicians could certainly determine those. But the safe thing for the army is to call them murmurs and reject them. And those are the ones who write me troubled letters.

Answer: Not necessarily. It depends on its size.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The twelfth annual Scioto township homecoming and fish fry at Commercial Point was to open with a horse pulling contest.

Mrs. Sewell Dunton, Sewell Dunton, Jr., Miss Jane Dunton, William Gates, of Greenfield, Mass., and Miss Maude Reed, of Hampton Highlands, Me., arrived in Circleville to spend two weeks as guests of Mrs. O. H. Dunton, and Miss Florence Dunton, South Court street.

Stanley Frazier, 37, of Ashville, Route 2, was recovering in Berger hospital from a fractured knee cap, suffered in an automobile accident on Route 23, two miles north of South Bloomfield. A bee in the car of Dr. Clifford Reidy, 709 Bryden road, Columbus, caused him to swerve and strike the car in which Frazier was riding.

THE REST OF MY LIFE WITH YOU
by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

That was a good, a golden summer. Matthew adjusted himself to living in the quiet apartment, working, seeing his mother at intervals. He was not lonely. It wasn't that he did not think of Irene or cease to miss her, but he was busy. There were always patients and invitations, and Sam and Bill with whom to talk to over the day's work.

Bill married in July and went off on his honeymoon, the office was rather slack, and Matthew was able to drive up now and then for just a night and for almost every weekend. He played golf, swam in the pool, defeated Jimmy Treadway at tennis, lay on the terrace or beside the pool and toasted himself a pleasant brown.

Judith thought, watching him one day: This was a dreadful mistake.

There was Matthew lying across the pool from her, his dark head on his arms, sleeping in the sun, on a hot Sunday in the late afternoon. Ella's weekend guests were rather on the tottering side, none swam. Mary had had her swim and gone for a walk with Lynn, also there for the weekend. Jimmy Treadway had come over for lunch, and he and Judith had quarreled, and he had gone away in a minor rage, threatening never to see her again.

Matthew rolled over and squinted up at the blue bowl of the sky.

Judith's bathing suit was white and she was bronze against it as she looked at him, and could look safely because her glasses were dark green.

"All you need is a tin cup," he suggested; "take off the disguise."

She said, "I don't want to get wrinkles."

"So Jimmy won't love you with wrinkles? What kind of guy is he? I never heard so much horse talk in my life as at lunch. Why did you ask me up anyway? Lynn and mother had a picnic on the terrace. I don't like your boy friend as well as I thought I would."

"Just because you don't play polo—"

"I sit on the side lines and wait for the fractures."

She said, "Well, maybe Jimmy isn't interested in clinics."

"But he thinks it's an alimony jail."

Judith declared, "Just because you don't even ride—"

"I could," emphasized Matthew, and sat up, "and I'd be good too. I used to, you know. But I haven't time, my girl, for social graces."

He stood up, dove, swam across the pool and climbed up, dripping, beside her. "I'm tired of shouting at you," he complained and lay down beside her.

Judith moved away slightly, and Matthew asked indignantly, "What's the matter, afraid of getting your suit wet or have I some dread disease? By the way, that's a rather fetching little number, what there is of it. Talk about exposure—"

"Sorry," said Judith shortly.

"You are not," he rolled over on his back, but his hands up to shield his eyes and looked at her from underneath them. "You're a very good-looking infant," he observed; "who would have thought it years ago? A fright, you were then."

"Never," demurred Judith. "I always had style."

Matthew laughed. "Wonder if Mother and Lynn are back? She'll probably come home covered with poison ivy."

Judith said impulsively, "Isn't it a shame they can't be married?"

"They? Who? What are you talking about?"

"Your mother and Lynn Mortimer."

"Of all the crazy ideas," he remarked and remembered that Irene had spoken of this to him, and how annoyed he had been.

Judith said crossly, "Oh, do grow up, Matthew! He's in love with her—isn't he?—and has been for years."

Matthew's mouth was a straight line. "Have you forgotten that he has an insane wife?"

"No, I haven't," answered Judith, "and neither has he. At least that's the kind of man he is. But it's tragic. They're such good companions . . . and if anyone deserves a break, your mother does. And Mr. Mortimer."

"A break?" He stared at her blankly. "She has everything in the world, her work, her friends, good times."

"And companionship?" asked Judith.

"I'm still around," declared Matthew.

Judith said after a pause, "Of course you are. But how about the companionship of a contemporary?"

She clasped her hands around her knees. "Of a special one, a man she could love and with whom she could grow old happily."

He interrupted. "You don't think, you just talk."

Judith said, after a moment, "I feel older than you. You won't face things, will you? I don't care how much she loves you, Matthew, she needs more—"

"Sure, I know he's fond of her . . . and she of him. But, Judy, take my word for it. She's the type who loves one man . . . and marries him. And no other."

"Perhaps," murmured Judith.

"You wouldn't know about that," asserted Matthew.

She took off her glasses and looked at him. Her very blue eyes blazed. "Wouldn't I?"

A servant came tottering down the lawn.

"Cocktails," deduced Matthew.

"Well, I'd better swim first; if I drink I'll drown." He rose and pulled Judith to her feet. She asked, trying to free her hands, "Sore at me, Matthew?"

"No . . . yes, for a moment. Then I realized you are only a romantic child," he said, "so I wasn't any longer. How about getting that suit wet?"

"Matthew, don't!"

But he picked her up, and with no particular gentleness, flung her into the pool.

That night sitting at dinner with Lynn and his mother, Matthew found himself regarding them with an exasperated curiosity. Luckily, he thought, that sort of grew up accepting Lynn, liking him better than any other man I ever knew, or I'd take a punch at him, just in case . . .

But there wasn't any "in case." Knowing Lynn, knowing his mother, he couldn't think, even briefly, of a situation with a capital S. Something like compunction stirred him for a moment. Sure, as he had told Judy, sure, he knew that Mortimer was fond of Mary Norman . . . you just took that for granted. But if he was really deeply in love with her?

Matthew was more than thirty, and a doctor. He knew it was perfectly possible for a man of Lynn Mortimer's age to be in love; and for a woman of his mother's age, as far as that went. He had seen more than one of them in his practice. Indian summer, second blooming, and bringing to love the mellow flaming glory of the autumnal trees. He knew it. But these were other women; not his mother. His mother was different. His mother was unique, and apart. She belonged to the memory of his father and to him. So, stirred, a very little, he looked tolerantly at Lynn Mortimer and thought: If it's true, well, poor devil . . .

Judy, confounded her. Romantic little idiot. Treadway wasn't good enough for her, not even if you considered his undeniable good looks and his golds of money. Treadway was all brass and no brain, half horse. Centaur, that was Treadway. A girl of Judy's caliber would tire of him in a year. Moreover, she wasn't in love with him. You could tell that, said Matthew to himself, tinkling the ice in his glass.

"Good coffee," he commented.

"Lord, I hate to go back to town."

"Must you?" asked his mother.

"Up and at it bright and early tomorrow morning, at the hospital," said Matthew. "There are some interesting cases on my service just now." He expanded about them and they listened. Lynn with half his mind and Mary with interest and some distaste. Matthew was so graphic, "Matthew," Irene had said once, "goes in for dotting all the 'I's."

Hints on Etiquette

It is a rule of etiquette for those who are invited to a wedding reception to send wedding gifts.

Today's Horoscope

You are an uncommunicative and independent person, and have great perseverance, if today is your birthday. In a quiet, modest way you carry out your plans, relying on your own good judgment. You are also affectionate and demonstrative, and require a steadfast love from your mate. Although health and employers may prove trying in the next 12 months, unexpected good fortune will come eventually. Praise documents and correspondence carefully. Employ originality in business. Artistic, musical and psychic talents will be displayed by the child born on this date. Sudden losses through theft or misplacement are threatened. He or she will be highly strung.

"The Authority on Authorities"

GET DOWN TO GROUND

IN ANY activity, bridge or anything else, it pays to get right down to the ground and observe fundamentals instead of favoring something which may appear more fancy and tricky. That is one reason why the more advanced players always look first. When the declarer, to see if the hand can be played according to the simplest formula, dropping trumps first and then discarding losers on high cards of a side suit. Medium players are more prone to look for chances to ruff losers first, for some reason or other. Perhaps there has been a lot of bad teaching.

In a duplicate tournament, one South reached 4-Hearts that way, and another by raising to game when North bid 3-Hearts on his second turn. One made it, very easily, with an extra trick, and one managed to get himself set three tricks. The successful one, after winning the club lead with the A, studied a bit and saw that this was a Type 1 hand. So he played trumps two rounds, scored the diamond K, led to the heart Q and ran diamonds, discarding all four spades, and so lost nothing except two club tricks at the end.

The other declarer, upon winning the first trick, noticed that he might pick up a few by ruffing out his spades—his favorite pastime. So he led the spade 2 to the second trick. East won and returned a club. West getting his side's second and third tricks there and fring back his heart 2. South won that in the dummy with the Q and led the diamond 8 to the K.

Now he ruffed the spade 3 with the heart 6, ruffed the diamond 10 with the heart 4, ruffed the spade 5 with the heart 8, and ruffed the diamond A with the heart 5 to get back to his hand. West, however, over-ruffed with the 9 and returned the spade K. South trumped with the K and led the heart A. But he then had to lose a final spade, and was down two by means of what might be called masterfully rotten play.

What promotional principle operates in making North's cards more valuable than if South were unable to bid on this deal?

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a smart afternoon frock of royal blue crepe, with tiny matching cap and swirling veil. Her dress and cap were trimmed with matching sequins and the skirt featured a beautifully draped front. She carried a formal bouquet of asters, centered with an orchid. She wore the orchid pinned at her shoulder when she left for her wedding trip.

For something old, she wore a pair of gold bracelets worn 60 years ago by her paternal grandmother, and also the strand of pearls given her as her wedding gift by the bridegroom.

Miss Betty Sapp served as the bride's only attendant. Her beautifully fashioned dress of grey crepe was complemented with a small, off-the-face hat of American Beauty shade. Her formal bouquet of asters was tinted to match the deep rose.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Dinah Shore will return to radio in the fall, and probably to the picture screen for her fourth movie. Report has RKO leading the bidding for her free-lance services.

Johnnie Johnston is commuting from Boston to New York, for the first three of his nine weeks on "The Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street." He's currently appearing at the Hotel Statler in Boston.

Returning from Chicago, where he covered the Democratic National Convention, Harry W. Flannery, political writer and war commentator, this week resumed airing of his regular week-day news analysis from Hollywood.

Arthur Vinton, of the "Mr. and Mrs. North" acting company, has been signed for a leading role in "The Day Will Come," which goes into rehearsal Aug. 14 and opens Sept. 7 on Broadway.

Olive Deering, young radio actress, wasn't herself the other day. That comes from acting on the unusual "We Who Dream" series. On one of the recent fantasies, she really wasn't herself. She was "Dream Voice" Claire Nes-sen's mirrored reflection, just one of the unique characterizations found on Friday evening series.

The sound effects man on the Sunday comedy show, "The Life of Riley," starring William Bendix, was called upon to produce one of the largest assortment of noises ever heard over the radio during a recent broadcast. An inventory of the sounds reproduced included: factory whistle, time-clock "ping," crowd noise (three levels), footsteps, telephone bell, assorted "clicking" sounds, electric spark, crashes and falls, clock ticking and striking, door sounds, doorbell ring, bowling alley noises, including bowling ball being rolled, striking pins, etc. and the explosion of a trick cigar, as well as the unusual vibrating noise produced by the breaking of a taut guitar string!

Memorial Lake Park Plans To Be Aired At Fish Fry August 17

OHIO OFFICIALS ON PROGRAM AT LOCAL OUTING

Survey Shows Water Will Flood 160 Of Proposed 407 Acre Park

Plans for the proposed Pickaway county state memorial lake park and recreational area will be discussed at a fish fry to be sponsored by the Pickaway Farmers' and Sportsmen association Thursday, Aug. 17.

Principal speakers at the fish fry to be held at Gold Cliff park will be W. H. Whelock, head of the inland lakes and parks division of the Ohio conservation department, and "Buck" Ryder, assistant state conservation commissioner. Also invited to attend the meeting is State Representative H. E. Louis of New Holland.

Louis Mebs, chairman of the lake project committee of the association, Thursday outlined some of the plans for the lake which is to be constructed in Washington township in the section known as "Devil's Backbone".

At the present time surveys have been completed and maps drawn of the area. The lake will cover 160.9 acres, and the park area, including the lake, as laid out by the state, takes in 407 acres of land.

Average depth of the lake will be 20 feet with 55 feet the maximum depth. The shoreline will be approximately 5.51 miles and the longest distance across the lake will be more than two miles. Three islands and a number of bays and fingers are planned. The drainage area of the lake will consist of about seven square miles.

Mr. Mebs said that due to the amount of water which will be impounded by the lake and its high altitude it will be valuable in raising the water level in the county.

THREE COUNTY RECEIPTS OF HOGS AIRFIELD TO SHOW DECLINE BE CONSTRUCTED ON CITY MART

An airport to serve Pickaway, Ross and Fayette counties will be opened about Sept. 1, it has been announced by B. L. Kay of Greenfield.

The privately sponsored project has been approved by the Civilian Aeronautical Administration and will be an officially designated CAA field, Mr. Kay announced.

The field, a 40-acre tract equipped with runways and hangar facilities, is located on the Roy Plumb farm near New Holland along Route 22 near the common boundary of the three counties. It is being promoted by Mr. Kay, Mr. Plumb and Reed Cory of Frankfurt who accumulated 3,200 hours as a flight instructor for the Navy at Pecos, Texas and Atlanta, Ga., before he was discharged because his vision failed to meet Navy qualifications.

Although privately sponsored the field will be open for public use and flying instruction will be given by Mr. Cory, Mr. Kay stated. Work of building runways is under way and construction of a hangar for storage of four planes has been started, Mr. Kay said. The area around the airport has many flat open fields which could be used for emergency landings if necessary.

the many pictures of bombs going wide of their mark by many miles.

For example, one unit sent out to bomb Germany dropped its entire bomb-load on a Swiss village more than thirty miles from its target. This is not an isolated case. Same thing has happened in France, Hungary, Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

Result is the War Department now has a hurry call in for vastly increased orders of artillery, forcing war plans to work round the clock to catch up with the demand for big guns.

CIO AND DEMOCRATIC PARTY
CIO officials came away from the Chicago Democratic convention determined to strip Boss of the Bronx Ed Flynn of some of his power over the Democratic Party in New York State.

Fast is the CIO was seriously hampered in its efforts to negotiate with New York State delegation to the Democratic convention because they have few members inside the Democratic Party. Most of New York's CIO members belong to the American Labor Party controlled by Sidney Hillman. Although this group polled about 400,000 votes in recent New York elections, it has less bargaining power in Democratic councils than its voting strength would indicate.

Therefore, the Hillman brain-trusters are working on a new plan to secure more power inside the Democratic Party. They propose to dissolve the Labor Party after the first of the year, and start mass entry of Labor Party members into the Democratic organization.

Labor Party members would then be elected as Democratic ward leaders, county committeemen, members of State executive committees; ultimately as delegates to future Democratic conventions.

CENSORSHIP OF SOLDIERS' READING

It is ultra unusual to find a Senator complaining because an executive agency follows a law which he himself has written. Yet that is the position of Ohio's Senator Bob Taft as a result of the soldier-vote law, which makes it a prison offense for officers of the armed forces to permit official distribution of propaganda material which might affect an election.

Bob Taft was responsible for this section of the law. The bill became law without the signature of the President.

Because the Army has tried to follow it scrupulously, it has been placed in the ridiculous position of banning Charles Beard's book "The Republic," even though it is permissible to distribute copies of Life Magazine containing a resume of the same book. This is because the law makes an exception of magazines and newspapers, permitting their distribution to Army camps.

While the rest of the soldier-vote act is only a temporary measure for the duration of this war, it happens that title 5, the section now causing all the trouble, is a permanent addition to the law of the land. Unless altered by Congress, it will mean permanent control over reading material for soldiers in and out of the country, in peace or war.
